

In the café – An English Text

The text below is about Lo that has gotten an extra job at a café.

In the café

The building is huge and you could definitely say the same about the windows in the café. Music is playing and freshly-baked cookies are placed out for the customers to see them. I am Lo and I have worked at this café for about one week now and it is so fun! I bake cookies, take orders and enjoy my time here. What I do here is different every day.

I talk to customers, I bake stuff (like yummy cookies, for example). I also work as a cashier here and I talk to customers sometimes too.

I walk into the big kitchen with three ovens and lots of workspace. The owner asks me to bake some Key Lime Pie. You might have heard about it before – at least if you live in America.

For the pie, I use condensed milk, key lime juice, egg yolks and my own special pie crust that many customers enjoy. A famous chef that was in town tasted my pie and he said to the owner:

– Hey! I need that recipe! This is so good.

The owner introduced me to the chef and I gave him the recipe. Since that, many people have said the same about my Key Lime Pie. My secret is just to make every ingredient embedded, but the customer should still be able to feel every ingredient. And this is just some things that has happened to me the first three weeks of being here and I can't wait to see what other great things that will happen!
