Think outside the box!

You have gotten a personal invitation to the Next Future Innovation competition*, and your task is to come up with an invention that can change the future. Write down the following:

– What your invention does
– How your invention will improve the daily life of people and/or change the future
– A short paragraph about who you are. Here, you can come up with something such as all the prizes you have “won” for being a successful inventor.

Write your text using the area below.
Please note: This assignment is a fictional scenario and therefore, this competition is fictional as well and does not exist in real life. If it does, the intention behind this school material was not to encourage applicants for the competition.
